THE LONG WAY TO GREECE. Homeward Bound Native Walks 390 Miles of It.

Delias Helyas, native of Patras, came here several years ago, leaving his wife and two little ones in the ancient Greek town of his birth. Late in October he got his savings together and decided to spend with his family the Christmas holidays, which come a fortnight later than our own. He was living in Milwaukee and bought a ticket from a North German Lloyd agent entitling him to sail from this port two months ago aboard the steamship Friedrich der Grosse. Instead of changing cars at Chicago for this city he got aboard a train which landed him in San Francisco. He learned that he was about three thousand. miles out of his reckoning and that would have to pay to get back toward New York. He found his money dwindling as he went along to the eastward. When he was within about 300 miles of this city he was within about 300 miles of the way to economize. He got here yesterday with his ticket to Patras and presented it to the North German Lloyd line. Gustave H. Schwab decided to honor the ticket and help the Greek to his home on a steamship of another line that will get him to Patras in time to celebrate the Christmas of his ancestors.
